OLC-EDEN may not be a household name yet it is a service already used in many homes throughout the world. As an international organisation dedicated to promoting distance education in Own Language and Culture, our four founding members have built up a wealth of experience meeting the needs of expatriates and their families in more than 100 countries worldwide.

As you would expect from such a dynamic international platform, we are all accredited by our own Ministries of Education and our technological expertise is cutting edge. Together we enhance the quality of education for families living and working abroad. That's the reason we know you. That's the reason you need to know us.

If your child is already one of more than 4000 using our services, you will recognize us from our names on the left. But if you are still looking for educational support, reliable advice and professional guidance for your family, you now know where to find us. Wherever in the world you are, we are a part of that world.

Four different organisations in four different countries; but with the same aims and the same standards. We share our experiences, we share our technology and we share the satisfaction of knowing that children in our care receive the best distance education available. So we know you – and now you know us.
